

This drawing demonstrates the principle of "scandalizing" as a quick method of reefing. As you can see, the sprit is moved to a cringle on the leech positioned such that the head of the sail folds down neatly to be secured to the mast. This system can be used in addition (or as an alternative) to the conventional reefing shown on the sail-plan. Consult sailmaker.